

Storage for vintage wine

Automated storage for the vintage wine business

Like most businesses, wineries have a lot to keep track of – and a lot to protect. So when it came to the bottom-line security of their business data, a California winery went for the best: the SureStore DLT Autoloader 418 from Hewlett-Packard.

Using HP automated backup not only ensures that their data is protected and easily restored, it also frees their IT staff to do other critical tasks – like training and support.

HP offers a complete family of automated DLT storage products – from the HP SureStore DLT Autoloaders 418/718 to the HP SureStore DLT Libraries – that initiate backups, swap tapes, clean tape heads, and manage your cartridges. If there's a problem, you're notified; if there's a write error, the system fixes it.

Securing the quality of your data is like protecting the quality of wine. It's how – and where – you store it that matters.
